Excerpt from Bulletin of the Treasury Department: Analysis of Receipts and Expenditure; Composition of the Public Dept; Prices and Yields of Government Securities; Other Treasury Statistics; July 1944 August 1944 In the Fifth War Loan, the Treasury again asked the cooperation of all banks in declining to make loans for the speculative purchase of Government securities. Loans to enable investors to purchase bonds in anticipation of income were encouraged, however, provided they were made on a short-term or amortization basis fully repay able within six months. The conditions under which bank loans would be desirable followed the principles set forth in the Joint statement on the matter by national and State bank supervisory authorities on November 23, This statement is found on page A-3 of the Treasury Bulletin for March 1944.
